It was another beautiful evening to be out in the woods this summer. Hannah Jickling's Featured Features art project brought out some new faces to discover the joy of this navigational treasure hunt. The tightest race came on the Novice course, where only five seconds separated the top three competitors, Sonjaa Schmidt, Alliya Thomson, and Sabrina Bouayad. Long-time orienteers Rhiannon Jones and Nansen Murray showed their fitness and experience by winning the Intermediate and Advanced courses, respectively, by solid margins. Forest Pearson, fresh from a Scandinavian orienteering tour, won the Expert course despite proclaiming it was another "puker special". The expert course featured an option to climb a huge 13 contour hill (the "puker") or take a significantly more circuitous route to minimize climb. The jury is still out on the optimal route choice.
