

The first Yukon biathlon-O was held on May 26, 2021 with a mix of orienteers and biathletes participating. The event was a modified score-O with points awarded for both control punched and targets dropped. There were easier and harder options for both shooting and navigation to accommodate different skill sets.

Top navigation for points scored from controls goes to Emma Waddington in the women's category. Emma struggled in the range a little but her dominance in the forest also gave her first place in the women's overall. Forest Pearson came on top for the men in both navigation and total score. He also has the distinction of cleaning all targets every visit to the range but was shooting on the easier targets so did not get top shooting score. That prize went to juniors Cheyenne Tirschman on the women's side and Matthew London on the men's side.

A big thanks to Nick Marnik for coaching the orienteers on how to shoot a rifle and keeping the range safe and to Biathlon Yukon for hosting this event. Thanks to Afan Jones for helping to pick up control. The event organizer was Dave Hildes.
