Summary

This event took place on an old map that is rarely used by the Orienteering Association. The registration desk was located at the Miles Canyon lookout, a great spot with a nice view on the landscape. Each course offered some level of challenge, given the thick vegetation, fallen trees and hilly terrain. Most participants had to travel along the old railroad at some point and could attest that bushes and trees are now taking over, a good reminder of the power of Nature. A bear with two cubs was seen by four participants on the southern tip of the map, but the following participants did not report anything and the bear probably moved to a more peaceful location. The weather forecast suggested that it could rain, but this did not happen and some blue sky was even seen as the event was closing, just before 9 pm.
